Sheep Shearing, Border Collies Featured at Old McCaskill's Farm Day on April 10

REMBERT--Dorset sheep and border collies will take center stage at Old McCaskill's Farm Day on April 10, where the yearly sheep shearing has become a full day of fun for the public.

Owners Lee and Cathy McCaskill have lived on their Kershaw County farm since 1989, enamored with a lifestyle they call "hectic but rewarding." Their entire farm is devoted to sustainable living, and among their animals are the 30 or so Dorset sheep they raise for meat and for wool.

People have always been fascinated by their sheep, especially the shearing, Mrs. McCaskill said. In 2008, they hit upon the idea of inviting the public to watch the sheep being shorn. Originally called "A Day in the Life..." the spring event now focuses on the annual sheep shearing.

Professional shearer Chuck Coustner of Simple Time Farms in Kings Mountain will clip the wool from about 30 sheep at the annual Sheep Shearing Day. An average fleece weighs five to 10 pounds, depending on the size of the animal. The wool is sent to Prince Edward Island in Canada, where it is washed, carded, dyed and spun into yarn.

The yarn is then made into blankets, which are sent back to Old McCaskill Farm to be sold in the store.

The second big draw at the farm day is a border collie demonstration, where these talented dogs herd farm animals, including sheep and ducks. Professional dog handler Carol Anne Bailey of Red Creek Farm in Townville will bring a group of dogs to demonstrate how they work.

Other attractions for the day include a working blacksmith, Kershaw County Master Gardeners, soap making, chair caning, the grist mill, saw mill and farm fresh concessions. Admission is $5 per person, and children under 2 get in free.

Although the farm started as a hobby, it now has everything to sustain itself, Mrs. McCaskill said. For meat, they raise cattle, goats, sheep, pigs and chickens. The family grows their own vegetables, which they sell at their farm store and at local farmers' markets.

The McCaskills grind their own corn, and their bee hives produce enough honey for them to sell. They make goat cheese, butter, ice cream, and syrup, in addition to selling fresh meat. All the meats and sausages are preservative-free.

Chuck Coustner expertly shears a ewe while the flock watches.

Visitors are welcome to tour the farm on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons. "There's always something going on, from daily chores to feeding animals to preparing meals," Mrs. McCaskill added.

Their on-site store showcases their farm-raised meat, produce, and hand-made items. The edibles at the store include lamb, pork, beef, goat, chickens, eggs, goat cheese, butter, honey, grits and milk, with a variety of Ashley's take-and-bake meals.

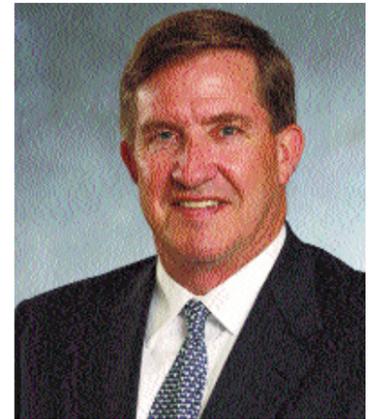

On Fridays, the public can eat fresh home-cooked meals at their daughter Ashley's farm-to-table lunch, beginning at noon.

"A Day in the Life" starts at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 10, with the sheep shearing commencing around 1:30 p.m. Plenty of farm-fresh food, including samples of goat and lamb meat, will be available, with live bluegrass music as background. The farm is located at 377 Cantey Lane, Rembert.

Commissioner's Cup BBQ Cook-Off & Festival

On March 19, we hosted the fifth annual Commissioner's Cup BBQ Cook-Off and Festival at the State Farmers Market in Lexington County. From the aroma all over the market you could tell it was smokin'. The meat I mean...

With 47 cook teams from across the Southeast, there was something to satisfy everyone's craving for savory, saucy pork. The weather was beautiful, in spite of the forecasted rain, and the crowd of around 3,000 was enthusiastic. Like the others, I enjoyed live music from the Going Commando Band and the antique tractor parade. Even the Easter Bunny was on hand to visit with the children in attendance.

The South Carolina Pork Board provided the meat for the event, along with IGA and Carolina Pride. Pit masters slow cooked nearly two tons of Boston butts this year. Other generous sponsorships from South Carolina Farm Bureau, US Foods, VB Hook and Senn Brothers helped make this event possible.

The trophies were a unique creation made from farm implements donated by AgriSupply in Florence. Colt Shirley, a local Camden artisan, designed one-of-a-kind awards blending BBQ and agriculture into highly sought after masterpieces.

Commissioner's Cup

Southern Barbecue Network judges had the tall task of selecting winners in the categories of Boston butts and pork ribs. Each team's presentation was rated based on appearance, aroma, taste and texture. Cook-off goes even got in on the action and voted for their favorite to be named the People's Choice winner.

The winners of the 2016 Commissioner's Cup BBQ Cook-Off were as follows:

Boston Butts:

1st place: Blowin Smoke LLC – Robert Morris, Columbia; 2nd place: Creek Mill BBQ – Ryan Livingston, North; 3rd place: Bobo's Que – Bobby Owens, Clayton, NC.

Pork Ribs:

1st Place: Templar Temptations – Bradley Jeffs, Hephzibah, Ga.; 2nd Place: Pork Fat Rules – Luke Pye, Inman; 3rd Place: Razorback BBQ – Jason Peterson, Summerville.

The People's Choice Award went to the 2015 State Champion, Smokin' Gringos and Mike Bastin of Goose Creek.

The 2016 State BBQ Champion was Creek Mill BBQ, and the reserve champion was Templar Temptations. They were among the most exuberant winning teams I've seen so far. I found out Creek Mill BBQ is an Orangeburg County neighbor of mine from the other side of the county, in North.

In addition to the food and fellowship, we collected 335 pounds of canned goods that will go to benefit Harvest Hope. That's about 258 meals to help those in need in our area.

Everyone involved, from the cook teams to the judges, was very complimentary of the way the event is put on. That makes me especially proud as Commissioner, to know the hard work of Department staff is easily recognized.

The Commissioner's Cup has grown tremendously over the years. What started under just one of our Certified SC sheds at the State Farmers Market now fills both sheds with cookers and vendors. This event is certainly becoming a Midlands tradition, and I hope you'll join us next year in our never-ending pursuit of the best BBQ in the South.

Pulled pork was one of the feature attractions at the state BBQ cook-off on March 26.

Saturday Seasonal Market Now Open at Greenville

The Saturday Market at the Greenville State Farmers Market is now open for the season.

Vendors will have a variety of plants, baked goods, crafts, and produce. Produce items will become available more abundantly as the season progresses.

Horticultural items include bedding plants and vegetable starts for the planting season.

The Saturday Market is not only known to be a place to purchase traditional farmers market items, but also for its social atmosphere which characterizes a day at the market.

Come out and enjoy this kick off to Spring at the Greenville State Farmers Market, 1354 Rutherford Road, Greenville.

If you do not receive your Market Bulletin on time, please check with your local post office.
